STREET CAR INCIDENT.

The car was crowded, every seat was taken, when from out the street a man entered, plain of face.

And, vainly gazing for a place to sit, he saw from door to door no room for even just one more.

When next the bell above him rang a pretty maiden lightly sprang upon the step and in, and then there was a shrieking of the men.

As each one took a gentle slide And made room for her at his side.

And can it be that she must stand While beauty hangs on command?

And is there in our heart no place For such except a pretty face?

What funny creatures these men are! We sometimes meet upon the car.

MORE DETAILS.

The Naval Engagements Between Japs and Chinese.

Furious Cannoning Kept Up for an Hour and a Half.

The Chang-Yuen Was Several Times Pierced by Shells. Took Fire and Heavy Cannonading. The Chang-Yuen Went Ashore and Also Foundered.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The correspondence of the Central News at Tientsin telegraphs further details as follows: The work of transferring the troops and stores from the Chinese transports to the shore was proceeding rapidly, when the Japanese fleet was sighted. Admiral Ting signaled to his fleet to form in line of battle. In obedience to the order the fleet was formed in a single line, with the exception of the cruiser Kwang-lai-Kwang and four torpedo boats, which were ordered to remain in line at the mouth of the river. The Japanese fleet advanced at full speed while the Chinese column was forming in line until they were within range, when the warships formed in line of battle, nine of them in the first column and three gunboats and five torpedo boats in the second column. The firing at the onset of the engagement was of an indifferent order, but the Japanese were creeping rapidly closer to the Chinese ships, and the gunners were improving by practice.

The Chinese battleship Ting-Yuen was the first to suffer any serious injury. A Japanese shell bursting in her battery. A furious cannonade was kept up for an hour and a half, when the Japanese ship Saikou was rendered helpless, and, according to the assertion of a Chinese officer, sank soon afterward. The Chang-Yuen was the next to be disabled, but she continued to use her smaller guns. The vessels of both fleets worked very rapidly under steam, and the Japanese were constantly maneuvering, but the Chinese held their original position.

Suddenly two Japanese cruisers, believed to have been the Aikishima and the Toshino, endeavored to break through the Chinese line. They were followed by three torpedo boats. As the Japanese ships advanced, at full speed, the Chinese ships Chang-Yuen and Chao-Yung backed at full speed astern to attack them. The Japanese torpedo boats fired, but their projectiles were stopped by nets. The guns of the other Chinese ships were trained on the Japanese cruisers, and they retired in a short time almost helplessly. The Chinese declare they were sunk.

The Chang-Yuen was several times pierced by shells. The Chao-Yung ran ashore while retreating, and became a target for the Japanese guns until she was set on fire. The Chang-Yuen was a terrible plight. A shell burst through her decks, and she slowly foundered, while the Chao-Yung was in a terrible plight. The Tai-Yuen withdrew from the first into the second column. The Chinese torpedo boats attempted to pursue the Japanese cruisers, but the Japanese remained the aggressors throughout, although two or three attempts to break the Chinese line were repulsed. The Chinese were covering their ashore, stern foremost, and met a fate similar to that of the Chao-Yung. After the first three hours of the engagement the firing was intermittent. The Japanese war loans, the list of which closed September 20, has received subscriptions for several times the amount of the loan.

THE ADAMS.

A Court of Inquiry to Assemble at Mars Island.

To Determine the Responsibility of Her Grounding in Behring Sea.

The Adams Was So Badly Struck That It Required Three Weeks to Pull Her Off—There is Considerable Mystery Surrounding the Accident.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Secretary Herbert Thurston today ordered a court of inquiry to assemble at Mars Island, Cal., next Tuesday to determine the responsibility and other facts relating to the grounding of the U. S. S. Adams on the Pribyl Islands, in Behring sea. There is considerable mystery about the accident to the Adams, which is a bad place to navigate in the summer. The sun is obscured by fogs; currents are strong and treacherous; charts are poor, and the whereabouts of a ship is a matter of guesswork.

The captain of the Adams was ill in his cabin when the Adams grounded, and he is still in invalid at Sitka, the ship having returned without him. The Adams was so firmly grounded that the Yorktown and Concord failed to pull her off, and it was not until the light frigate Petrel came to their assistance that the concerted effort succeeded.

An examination of the Adams capped a panic on board, as it was thought the ship would go to pieces, so the Yorktown was ordered to take her in tow, 110 miles, breaking all towing records. A terrific storm overtook the vessel, which was weathered by the presumably disabled Adams in a much better manner than by the Yorktown.

From Sitka the Adams proceeded to San Francisco without assistance or consort, and made the run in as good time as if no damage had been done to her, and this after a voyage of nearly a month. It had been decided that she was unfit to go to sea.

The Adams will go into the dry dock on Saturday, and naval officers predict that little or nothing will be found the matter with her. As soon as she is again ready for sea she is destined for duty at Samoa.

Objections to a Brave Soldier.
A young Sergeant distinguished himself by his gallantry at Douaumont and was recommended for promotion. He was summoned to appear before a military board at Washington and closely questioned by West Point graduates. None of his answers were satisfactory. When the report reached President Lincoln, he edged for a moment, laid the paper on his desk, then taking one gaunt knee in his hands said: "I don't know what to do with this case. Here's a young fellow who knows nothing of the science of losing battles. He doesn't even know the technical name of the fortification on which he ran up the Stars and Stripes in the face of the enemy." He thought a moment, then indorsed the report:

"Give this man a Captain's commission."

Among the incidents of childhood that stand out in bold relief, as our memory reverts to the days when we were young, none are more prominent than the severe sickness. The young mother vividly remembers that it was Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured her of croup, and in turn administered it to her own offspring and always with the best results. For sale by Theo. C. Power, Druggist.

A Good Thing to Keep at Hand.
Try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Some years ago we were very much subject to severe spells of cholera morbus; and now when we feel any of the symptoms that usually precede that ailment, such as sickness at the stomach, diarrhoea, etc., we become scared. We have found Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy the very thing to straighten one out in such cases, and always keep it at hand. We are not writing this for a pay testimonial, but to let our readers know what is a good thing to keep handy in the house. For sale by Theo. C. Power, Druggist.

THE MAYSVILLE REPUBLICAN WEEKLY PUBLIC LEDGER.

Did U?

Did you ever think that relatives or friends who have moved to distant places—gone West, perhaps, to grow up with the country—are always glad to hear from their "old Kentucky home"? And did it ever occur to you that a single copy of THE MAYSVILLE REPUBLICAN—the weekly edition of The Public Ledger—contains more home news than you could embrace in a hundred ordinary letters? And did it ever strike you that you can send the paper to your relatives and friends for a whole year at less cost than you can write a letter every week? Besides, don't you think a year's subscription to THE REPUBLICAN would be a present highly appreciated by those at a distance? Suppose you try it and hear what they have to say on the subject.
